FLOWERS AND CHILDREN

Harriett Markham Gill

It is my dearest wish
To see some future day
Blooming flowers in every yard
Where little children play.

To see their joyful faces
And their happy smiling eyes
As they taste part of the beauty
That lies beyond the skies.

For God meant them to be happy,
These little ones of earth,
And so he made the blossoms
To give them joy and mirth.

And to teach a gentle lesson
Of tenderness and love,
To follow in the footsteps
Of the heavenly one above.

DAHLIAS FOR THE CHILDREN

Let the children have a corner in the garden all their own and encourage them to care for them. All children love flowers and a garden of their own will have a tendency to keep them closer home. We have three children and they are out among the flowers all summer long. They had some of their own last summer and took a lot of interest in them.

The first Sunday in October is Children's Day at our farm and to every child that visits the farm accompanied by their parents we will mail a Dahlia bulb the following spring.

ANOTHER YEAR

Dear Friends:

Another year has rolled by and again our silent solesman is calling on you. If you haven't any use for our little catalog please hand it to some friend who likes nice flowers.

We wish to thank you one and all for the orders you sent us the past season and we sincerely trust that your bulbs all grew and proved a source of pleasure to you and your friends.

Owing to the dry year dahlia bulbs are not quite as large as last year but as a small bulb will produce just as big and fine a flower as a large one no difference will be noticed.

We have not listed cannas, perennials, etc., this year, as they take our time and attention from the dahlias. We intend to concentrate all our efforts to growing and producing better dahlias.

I am always glad to hear from any one who wishes to know anything about dahlias, and will answer all questions to the best of my ability.

Yours for better Dahlias,

CHAS. W. GILL

ONE OF THE MANY LETTERS RECEIVED

Everson, Wash., Oct. 24, 1924

Gill's Dahlia Gardens,
Washougal, Wash.

Dear Sir:

I am just writing a few lines to tell you how I enjoyed my flowers from the wonderful bulbs I received from you, and they didn't have a fair chance because of the dry summer. Even the last ones you sent me had wonderful blossoms on them. (Mailed her in June.) I have just put my bulbs away for the winter. I surely missed them when the frost killed them down. Each one as they bloomed held a surprise in store for me. They certainly were wonderful and were admired by all who saw them. I would have liked to have seen your garden when in full bloom but was too far away. I hope to be able to order a lot more bulbs from you next year.

Most sincerely,

MRS. PERRY HATCH

DAHLIA CULTURE

Dahlias are easily grown and will thrive in almost any soil if given plenty of cultivation and water. They like an open sunny location but will do well in partial shade. If your soil is clay mix it with sand or ashes.

For fertilizer we have found that sheep guano and a small percentage of potash gives excellent results. Mix it thoroughly with the soil at planting time.

Planting Time varies according to locality. Throughout the Northwest, from May 15 to June 15 is probably the best time. We have planted as late as July 7 and had lots of flowers. In any case do not plant till the ground is warm.

Plant bulbs with the eye about 4 inches deep. Drive a stake in the hole and put the eye of bulb next to the stake and when the plant is high enough tie it securely to the stake.

Cultivation is very important, and one should cultivate often and deeply till buds appear, then just keep the top of the ground loose. Keep all the weeds out and water very often during the dry weather.

Keep all the old blooms picked off and do not be afraid to cut the flowers, as the more you cut the more they will bloom.

Harvest your dahlias a few days after frost has killed them. Shake out all the dirt as carefully as possible, cut the stalk off about 2 inches from the bulbs and pack them in a box upside down, so that any moisture in the stalk will run out. Store them where they will not freeze but watch that they do not get too dry.

Dahlia Seed can be planted in boxes inside or hot-beds in March and transplanted after all danger of frost is over, or you may plant in the open ground in May.

HYBRID CACTUS

A FIELD OF DAHLIAS

My Dahlia field like a silken flag
Across my vision spreads
In gorgeous shades of bronze and gold,
Of yellows, lavenders, and reds.

Tall creamy spikes on slender stems,
Delicate pinks that nod and sway;
They fill my heart with sense of peace
Throughout each mellow, golden day.

Set, jewel-like, on a sun-kissed hill
Against a ground of tree and sky,
Caressed by gentle, vagrant winds,
To charm the eyes of passers by.

A shrine where I may live and learn
It seems in friendly autumn hours.
I offer thanks to nature's gods
That cast my lot among the flowers.
